Meeting the donor

our impression

Spike is a laid back, educated, and hardworking man. He has kind blue eyes and thick, brown hair. Throughout conversing with Spike, we have realized how warm hearted and nurturing he is, as he currently spends his time as a stay at home step father. Though he finds this job rewarding, we love to hear about his knowledge of geography and he is determined to be a geography teacher in the future.

Spike is also incredibly artistic, and plays acoustic, electric, and bass guitar! This does not come as a surprise to us because of his curiosity to always learn new things. Spike also has a connection to infertility, as he has loved ones who have undergone IVF, and has a desire to help those struggling with infertility. We recommend Spike to any family!

Describe a few of your strong sides:

One of my strong sides would be my attention to detail and scrutiny in my work to make it the best that it can be. I worked countless hours, losing track of time, to make my final GIS project the best that I could make it. Another strong side of mine would be my paternal skills. I have no kids of my own but have taken in my girlfriend's daughter as my own and treat her with more love and care than I ever knew possible, despite her not being my own.

Describe a few of your weak sides:

One of my weak sides would be being overly critical of myself and my work at times. It's also a strong point but I can be too hard on myself in that aspect at times. I can also be very stubborn and strong willed at times.

Describe your artistic ability:

I consider myself to be quite artistic. Growing up, I drew quite a bit and took many art classes in middle school and in high school. I am mostly self taught on the guitar but began taking lessons when I was 15 years old.

What is your ultimate ambition or goal in life and how do you see yourself in twenty years?

Ultimately, in 20 years, I would like to see myself teaching geography at the high school level or as a GIS analyst for really anywhere. Teaching sounds appealing to me because I love geography and I feel that I can present it in a fun and entertaining way to children. GIS is my major though, so really anywhere in GIS would be great as well.

Donor essay

Why do you want to be a donor?

I want to be a donor because I have known people in my life who have had children from in vitro fertilization due to being in a same sex relationship. It has helped them achieve their dream of starting a family and I want to help do the same for others. Whether from infertility, same sex relationships, or any other circumstances.

Describe your relationship with your family. How has your family shaped your values and who you are today?

My relationship with my family is pretty tight knit. My father was in the Marine Corps when I was growing up, so we had to learn to help each other out and take care of each other. I have taken a lot from this, and it has made me who I am today. It has made me into someone who will do whatever it takes to make sure that my family and friends are taken care of.

What makes you unique?

I am unique because I like to try many different things. I consider myself to be a “jack of all trades, master of none” type of person. I like to do many different things to see my likes and dislikes, whether I stick with it or never quite master it, I at least try it out.

What are you most proud of and why?

I am most proud of my military service in the Marine Corps because I was truly able to help people. I was doing things such as working in a kitchen to help feed the less fortunate during the holidays or providing food and water to people who were oppressed by the Taliban in Afghanistan. I felt like I was able to make a difference in not only my life but in other people's lives as well.
